LANGHORNE OPENS SCHOOLS SEPT. 6TH; FACULTY CHANGES

Miss Holt Advanced to High School to Teach English and Latin

OTHER CHANGES MADE

Announce Rule for Admittance of Beginners to First Grade

LANGHORNE, Aug. 31.—The Langhorne-Middletown Schools will open for the new term on Tuesday, September 6th. A few improvements have been made in the buildings and some changes in the faculty and courses of study.

Miss Holt, of Bucknell University, who taught in the seventh and eighth grades, has been advanced to the high school as a teacher in English and Latin. Miss Staehle, a Pennsylvania University graduate who lives in Middletown Township, has been assigned as teacher of social sciences in the 7th and 8th grades. Outside of these two changes the teachers will remain the same as last year. This is probably the smallest turnover in each personnel which has been made in several years.

The sixth grade and one section of the fifth will report to the Friends' school, while the seventh and eighth will have their new quarters in the Fine Street grade school. This change was necessary on account of the limited capacity of two of the rooms in the Friends' School for accommodating the increased enrollment of the seventh grade, which this year will be approximately 80 pupils.

The same rule for the admittance of beginners will be enforced this year as was used in previous terms. All children who will be six years of age on or before December 31st, 1932, will report to Miss Lantz with birth and vaccination certificates. No one will be admitted who fails to present either of these two papers. Pupils who are kept out of school the first part of the term will miss a very important part of the fundamental work of this grade. We urge all parents to see that the children be given a fair start in their school life by obtaining the necessary credentials for the opening day, state school officials.

All freshmen and new upper class students will report to the assembly hall for instruction in arranging class schedules. The principal and the dean will be glad to consult with parents on September 2nd, as to the choice of curricula and electives.

Since the formation of classes depends upon the number of students enrolled in each individual subject, it is important that every one be present on Tuesday, September 6th.

Lockers will also be assigned to all pupils the first day.

The most important change was made in creating a study hall by combining Rooms 3 and 4. This was done by eliminating the cloak rooms and installing folding doors. Whereas last year over 200 students were crowded into a room containing 49 seats, this year 105 seats will be available, thus providing a seating capacity for 210, placing two at every desk. This innovation will enable the school to provide better assemblies. It will be possible to invite guest speakers, have he chorus and orchestra take part, and also will provide a much better place for holding such meetings as the Parent-Teachers' Association.

The old library room will be used as a small class room and the books moved into Room 1.

The Friends' Committee has directed the painting of their school inside and out.

Plans have been made to have all boys examined by a local doctor before permission is granted them to participate in high school sports. This system, inaugurated last year, was found to be very successful in detecting physical defects which might otherwise have resulted in serious injuries to boys who were supposedly fit to play. Mr. Beck again will have charge of football, and will be assisted by Mr. Stompler, who will act as acutly manager in order to relieve the coach of most of the business details. Mr. Pepper will continue in his work as track coach.

The high school schedule has been changed from seven periods of forty-five minutes to six one-hour periods.
The assembly will be held at 9 o'clock instead of the afternoon. Students will have a better opportunity to compete assignments under the teacher in charge of the class. It will also enable pupils to have access to the library practically every period during the day. Last year reference and reading material was available only during specified library periods a few times a week.

The estimated enrollment for the two districts is as follows: Langhorne, Grades 1-6, 250.
Parkland, Grades 1-6, 135.
Edgehill, Grades 1-3, 35.
Junior High, Grades 7-8, 125.
High School, Grades 9-12, 215.
Total, 760.

The pupils on the following list will

Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions today radioed he had been forced down on the Aleutian Island almost half way across the northern Pacific at 6 p. m., Tuesday, Pacific standard time (10 p. m., E. D. T.). The radio message was picked up here today. The famous German transoceanic flier enroute to the Orient on a westward flight around the world, ran into bad weather which made it impossible for his radio operator to communicate with the world and the message telling of the safe arrival was thus delayed for some time.

SUES SENATOR DAVIS

New York City, Aug. 31.—A $25,000 damage suit against Senator James J.
Davis, Pennsylvania, was pending in court today.

Morris Hamelin, Nassau County, accused the Senator, then Secretary of Labor, of ruling he was an alien, subject to deportation. Hamelin declared he was a native citizen of America and Davis' decision delayed his release from the Atlanta Penitentiary for a mail fraud. Summons in the suit was served on Senator Davis after he pleaded not guilty to Federal court indictments accusing him of participating in a lottery scheme under sponsorship of the Loyal Order of Moose. Trial was set for September 19th.

tracks to another to get out of the way and were hit by a passenger train.

SUN 9.3 PERCENT HIDDEN

FREYBURG, Maine, Aug. 31.—(INS) —Out of the northwest over a path of 102.6/10 miles wide this afternoon will rush a shadow traveling about 2,040 miles an hour or 34 miles a minute.
It arrives here at 3:28 p. m., e. d. t., and passes over for 97 seconds. It has been estimated, the next eclipse of the sun, which will be visible to the United States under observation circumstances as favorable as those of today, will not occur until the year 2017, a period of 85 years.

For a few minutes prior to the arrival of the shadow today there will appear what are known technically as "shadow bands." These are tiny bands of light and shadow, and are clearly visible on walls and sheets spread for the purpose. After this display, the corona of the sun will appear as gar-lands of softly glowing atmospheric light fringing out from beyond the rim of the sun.

Several hundreds of thousands of people have gathered in this vicinity to witness the total eclipse.

Special trains have been arriving at this locality for two days.

Hundreds in Bristol and vicinity are planning to view the eclipse this afternoon. Nichols studio, announcing

As Court Ruled Against Walker

Justice Ellis J. Staley (left), of the New York Supreme Court, is shown as he handed to John J. Curtin, attorney for Mayor James J. Walker, the decision whereby he ruled that the judiciary has no power to interfere with the functions of the Governor of the State. The Walker forces had sought a writ prohibiting Governor Roosevelt from removing him from office if, in the Governor's opinion, the evidence presented at the hearing warrants such drastic action.

MANCHUKUO OCCUPATION WAS "FRIENDLY ACT"

Japanese Army Operates As Force of Good Will,
It is Said

NOT ON A CONQUEST

Following is the third of a series of articles based on talks with the Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs of the new state of Manchukuo at the capital, Changchung, Manchuria.

By John Goette

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) HSINCHING, Manchuria, Aug. 31.— (INS)—"The Japanese army operates in Manchukuo as a force of good will.
It does not come as an army of conquest," Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs Ohashi told me today. "What Japan has done in Manchuria has been done in the spirit of altruism—the friendly act of a neighboring nation."

"Not only is that the case among the military," he continued, "but it is also true that the chief task of the Japanese gendarmerie in Manchukuo is to prevent civilian Japanese elements from taking advantage of the natives on the basis that they are accompanying a victorious military machine. That is not the doctrine of our new state which is founded upon equal opportunity for all. We will have none of the superiority complex."

"To such an extent is this true, our army leaders lecture the officers who have come here from Shanghai operations, on the difference between what is happening here and what took place there. The spirit with which they approach the residents of Manchukuo must be of a different order. The result is that I ask you if you have seen anything but the smoothest relations between the Japanese troops and the people. Everywhere they are welcomed as deliverers and restorers of peace and order."

In answer to my question as to when the Japanese army would leave Manchuria, Mr. Ohashi spoke frankly.
"It is impossible to put a time limit," he said. "Manchukuo has no army upon which it can depend for the preservation of peace or the defense of its borders against, for instance, Soviet Russia. Manchukuo is too poor to pay the expenses of the Japanese army and that is done by Japan."

"I am endeavoring to secure Japanese recognition of our country. We will negotiate a treaty with Japan recognizing the latter's special rights in Manchuria, its peculiar economic problems due to its insular position, and its needs of military defense. The matter of the Japanese Leased Territory in Manchuria does not come within these proposed negotiations."

There is something strange in talking with a Japanese who deals in a detached way with the land of his birth, but by some process Mr. Ohashi successfully gave the impression that he had thrown off his Japanese nationality and completely clothed himself in his adopted role of director of Manchukuo's international destiny. I had the impression that he frequently did not see eye to eye with his former colleagues of the Tokyo Foreign Office, although he assured me in answer to my question, that he thought the Japanese government saw the future of Manchukuo just as he did.

"Japan knows very well that annexation of Manchuria would be a foolish and costly mistake," he said emphatically. "Such a step would immediately alienate the 30,000,000 inhabitants. It would give Japan a second Korea.
Therefore, you can believe me that there is no likelihood of it."

In conclusion, Ohashi carried himself to a startlingly frank admission.
"At the moment," he said, "I consider Manchukuo a better place to live in than Japan. It is a land of prospects, a country of the future."

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Betz, Madison street, with Mr. and Mrs. John Brehm, Monroe street, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Welland, Narberth.

the Borough

ELEVEN TO ENTER H. S.

TULLYTOWN, Aug. 31.—According to the enumeration of the school children here there are 136 boys and girls who will attend the local schools and the Bristol High School.

The enumerator's report shows there will be 32 boys and girls between the ages of six and eight. In this group there are 22 boys and 10 girls. Most of this group will be in the primary room which is taught by Miss Marion Wells.
This is Miss Wells' sixth consecutive term as teacher of this department.

In the group between the ages of eight and thirteen the girls have a big lead over the boys, there being 40 girls and 29 boys in this group. Some will be taught by Miss S. Elsie Ettinger, and the balance by George T. Itterly. Miss Ettinger is the teacher for the intermediate room, which comprises the third, fourth and fifth grades. Principal Itterly teaches the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

There will be 29 pupils over the age of 14. Most of these will attend the Bristol High School.

The eleven pupils who graduated from the Tullytown schools last spring will enter the Bristol High School.
This will make a total of about 39 pupils from Tullytown attending the Bristol school.

There are five more pupils enrolled this year than last year. The enrollment last year was 131. Six children under the age of six are scheduled to enter the local schools. This group comprises four boys and two girls.
These tots will celebrate their sixth birthdays within a short time.

Doris, Tullytown, were entertained on Wednesday to Sunday at the home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs.
Frederick Stewart, Bath street.

A NEW STYLE IN SWEET POTATOES

—O—

Burlington, N. J.,
August 29, 1932.

Dear Stroller:

Just to show you that this burg is not in the backward class any longer, am writing to advise you of a new idea in the great art of sweet potato growing.

The farmers in this district feel that not enough of their ideal vitamin vegetables are eaten annually. So, in order to bolster up the trade, they placed enormous orders for all sorts of rubber toys.

And what did they do with them?

They placed their plantings inside these toys so that when they start to dig them in the fall millions of sweet potato toys will be placed on the market, shaped as the public has never seen them before. They will do double duty; as a toy for the children, and afterwards for a healthy square meal.

This idea was brought about several years ago when one of the farmers tried this system with Bermuda onions. When his crop was dried and seasoned the farmer opened them he discovered that his eyes were greatly watered. So down to Washington he drove, sold his plan to the secret service there, and today, what is known to all police officials as tear gas bombs is nothing else but this Burlington County farmer's plan to develop his onion industry.

Old York Road's Past To Be Recalled in Pageant

In a brilliant pageant calculated to accelerate the heart beats of every citizen, the big moments in The Old York Road's history will be presented by Strawbridge & Clothier in the exhibition salon of their Old York Road store, Jenkintown, September 12 to 17 at 3 o'clock each afternoon.

Albert Cook Myers will give a talk on "The Amazing Advances of Two Centuries," with many pictured illustrations of "Those Times and These," showing scenes new and old from practically every town from Oak Lane to Buckingham.

Voices from the Strawbridge & Clothier chorus will render a legend of the Revolution—a beautiful, poetic romance of Farmer Jarrett's daughter.

The traditions of the earliest settlers and the fashions of the 18th century will be portrayed in picturesque manner; and the customs of our forefathers—the dances they danced, the songs they sang—all will have a place in this colorful, moving spectacle, with a grand finale of the national flags and anthems of these great pioneers.

One of the big features of this event is the competitive costume exhibit in which the following women's clubs are competing for the Strawbridge & Clothier club awards:

The Jenkintown Woman's Club; Review Club of Oak Lane; Colony Club of Ambler; Sorosis Club of Langhorne; Abington Civic Club; Monday Club of Fox Chase; the Willow Grove Civic Club; Southampton Civic Club; Buckingham Woman's Club; the Travel Club of Bristol; Woman's Club of Conshohocken; Everywoman's Club of Glenside; Woman's Civic Club of North Wales; "The Neighbors" of Harboro.

Because of the widespread interest an event of this kind inspires, admission will be by ticket, obtainable at the main desk, mezzanine, The Old York Road store, or by writing Dame Jenkins, Strawbridge & Clothier, Jenkintown.

The tickets, now available, will be given out each day of the week, to the capacity of the exhibition salon, and honored only on the day for which they have been issued.

HULMEVILLE MAN ADMITS TAKING CHURCH BOX MONEY

Raymond Stevenson, 21, Confesses Theft to Samuel
J. Illick

IN THE COUNTY JAIL

Will Be Given Further Hearing on Charge Next Saturday

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 31.—Confessing he had broken into and robbed collection boxes at the Neshaminy M.
E. Church, here, Raymond Stevenson, 24, a resident here, was held for a further hearing Saturday.

Stevenson, it is stated, made his confession to Samuel J. Illick, burgess and also a church official. He is alleged to have admitted that he entered the church between services at various times and took envelopes from the boxes.

According to the church official money has been reported missing from the boxes for a period of several months. Since the first of the year it is estimated that at least $100 has been taken.

Stevenson made his confession to Samuel J. Illick, last night, in the office of Justice of Peace, Harry B.
Welsh. Stevenson had been brought before Justice Welsh charged with larceny of stocks and dies from Raymond Vornhold.

Vornhold missed stocks and dies valued at $5 some time ago and in tracing the missing articles it was found that Gustave Reetz had purchased some from Stevenson for 50 cents. They were identified as the property of Vornhold and a warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

Stevenson was identified in a Bristol theater Saturday night and Constable Morris accompanied by a Bristol police officer placed him under arrest.

Vornhold withdrew

PRACTICAL RELIEF

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has named an advisory board of five members to assist in the study of the technical angles of self-liquidating relief projects, and wisely chose for this board five recognized engineers.

Though its job is a big one the advisory board is equal to it. Its particular work will be the examination of applications under the R. F. C. Law's clause permitting the lending of not more than $1,500,000,000 for self-liquidating projects of public and quasi-public character.

Advances made from this fund will not be gifts. They will be loans, made upon responsible collateral or surety and are to be repaid, making possible the retirement of the R. F. C. when it shall have served its emergency purpose.

Here is a billion and a half dollars for direct unemployment relief. Here is money to finance needed public improvements long contemplated by the states and municipalities but never carried out because of lack of funds. And public works undertaken at this time mean work for men, factories, quarries and mines, and business for everybody.

It is hoped the R. F. C. and its advisory board can get the greatest amount of good out of the fund and at the same time prevent public borrowers from getting in over their heads.

AMERICAN FORTITUDE

There is at least one satisfaction to be taken from the depression and that is that while the suffering has been great it will leave no lasting ill effects. The disease is not permanent, nor will leave permanent scars.

Through all the worry and want the people have emerged in excellent physical conditions. Vital statistics and other medical records show a lower death rate and improved public health.

So has the national morale stood firm in the face of what might be considered unusual temptations to crime caused by privations and despondency. Crime has not increased in the United States since 1929 although reasons why it should have been many.

The bureau of investigation of the Federal Department of Justice has completed a crime survey in 72 cities of more than 100,000 population and found that during the first six months of this year there were 7,400 fewer automobile thefts, 650 fewer robberies and three less murders than in the corresponding period of 1931. Burglaries and larcenies showed no change.

American character has stood up. It has proved unshakable. Those fine qualities of character which carried the first colonists through terrible hardships and the 13 colonies through the revolution have been brought out by the depression. America will emerge from these current troubles stronger than ever.

And if the five-day week doesn't end overproduction and unemployment there is still the British week-end.

There's so much laid in the best of us that it hardly becomes any of us to act as models for the rest of us.

COKE

Will I save money with Koppers Coke?

You'll save one dollar out of every five you spend to heat your home. For you'll burn less Koppers Coke and pay less for it. Economize, and get more heat—with Koppers Coke.

Can a woman take care of a Koppers Coke fire?

Any one can run a Koppers Coke fire if instructions are followed. The fuel is light and easy to shovel. It requires fewer trips to the cellar, less shaking, less work. Many women prefer coke fires!

Will Koppers Coke burn out my furnace grate?

Ashes cause grates to burn out, by choking up the ash-pit. Since Koppers Coke produces only one-third the ashes, it's easier to keep the pit clean and prevent damage to the grate.

Is Koppers Coke always the same quality?

Every ton of Koppers Coke is made from carefully selected coals, to meet a single high standard of quality. You get the same steady heat month-in and month-out— if you use Koppers.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY COWLEY-FRIEDLE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

"DOUGHERTY!" remonstrated Thatcher Colt. "Could you wait to question Mr. Everett?"

"I'm sorry, Thatcher," rumbled Dougherty, his face a brick-red shade. "But the whole thing is getting clearer to me every second. Go ahead!"

Thatcher Colt was deliberately filling his pipe.

"I am sorry to take issue with you there, Dougherty. At this point, everything gets very dark to me. I do not know what happened. All that I can safely say that I know is that Christine Quires was murdered. Somewhere in this apartment—which was not guarded at that time—an assassin was concealed. Now was the time, Christine was killed. It is impossible at this stage to attempt to visualize the scene.

"We have to guess here. But from other facts that we know, let us assume that we have the right to lay down a hypothesis. Then let us try to fill in the gaps and see if it all adds up.

"Let us begin by accepting the fact that someone had a deep and malicious reason for murdering Lola. But that mysterious someone—probably among us here—played so deep a game that Lola was herself taken into the scheme. That is to say, the plotter told Lola that two of Lola's enemies should be killed, to avoid an exposé. Lola was not averse to any counsel, for her own safety; she was demonstrably a person of little scruple. Lola was tempted to commit murder herself—and Lola told Baldwin to order the scorpions.

"Sheer guess-work, most of that. But follow the notion and see where it leads us. Suppose that Christine had overheard this blood-thirsty temptation? She is terrified. She does not know whether to tell or not. She sends for her brother. She makes vague hints to Everett. She comes home. She finds the killer here—and the accusation is out. In the argument that follows, the killer denies everything. Christine's back is turned; the killer approaches with a box of death held high; the lid is opened and the scorpion springs upon the nearest victim. The death bite was in Christine's ear.

"So much I have to guess at—but all that follows is based on factual evidence which buttresses the rest of the story to a most convincing degree.

"At least, the box was thrown out of the window. But in the magic mirror of reconstruction the scene of what followed is too faint. We cannot make out the features of the killer. But from this moment on, certain other facts become much clearer. A part of the secret is being given up to us, by virtue of the most common and ordinary virtues of everyday police work. By diligence and careful scrutiny we find definite indications. Mark you! When we found the body of Christine Quires, her clothes were soaking wet. Here was a clue which we could not overlook. There was no mistaking its importance. For some hours the dead body of Christine Quires had been exposed to last night's storm. Yet how was that possible? Remember that trained police operatives searched this apartment—and the terrace. Later we flooded the terrace with searchlights. Yet we found not the slightest trace. If the body of Christine had been lying out on the terrace we would have found it during our first search. But suppose even that we blundered and overlooked it. In our subsequent search we would have found in the sleet such traces of the body itself and the footprints of those who dragged it there that we could not have overlooked them if we wanted to—especially with our blaze of searchlights. No such traces were there. The body was not concealed in this apartment. It was not on the terrace and it was not on the roof. Now where was it?"

I found one window in Lola Carewe's room that told its own story.

Colt's tanned, eager face was flushed and eager as he stared from the white, attentive faces of Edgar Quires and his large wife, to Guy Everett, Mrs. Baldwin, and at last to the feline little Vincent Rowland.

"Where was the body all those hours?" repeated the Commissioner. It was as if he were working the case out logically in his mind; as if, indeed, his thoughts had been wired for sound.

"A very simple bit of detective work has made it possible to answer that question. You will recall that certain strange marks were found on the throat of Christine Quires. They were brutal markings. The medical examiner definitely established that there was a constriction of the throat muscles, sufficient to have caused death by strangulation.

"But death was not caused by strangulation. It was caused by the bite of the scorpion! The strangling of the throat had been done after death!

"Why should any murderer choke the throat of a body, once it is dead? It is a waste of time, if nothing else.

THIRD WARD A. C. WINS OVER LA FRANCE A. C.

Ed "Knuckleball" Lavenberg was in fine form yesterday afternoon on Sullivan's field as the Third Ward A. C. added another game to their list of victories, blanking the LaFrance A. C., 6-0.

Hurling for the downtown boys, Lavenberg held the opponents to but three scratch hits and fanned thirteen batsmen. He failed to issue a free ticket to first base.

The stars of the game were "Niggle" Brushia who made three hits for the winners and Friel who was the fielding star, handling six chances without a miscue.

Tonight on Sullivan's field, the All-Stars will meet Johnny Manera's All-Stars. Game will begin at 6.15 o'clock.

OAKFORD NINE LOST TO BENSALAM ACES

In a snappy contest that showed the Aces really could play winning ball, the Oakford A. C. that made such a fine showing against Eddington A. A. on Sunday went down to defeat.

On the mound for the Aces was Charlie Scott who throws 'em up so that the opponents can't hit 'em out of the infield. For the first two innings Oakford went down in order then they got their first run of the game when Frey hit a single followed by Cadwalader's two-baser. The next time an Oakford player saw the plate for a run was in the seventh frame when Hemingway got a walk and was sacrificed home by Gormley. During this time the Aces were busy collecting five runs for themselves and the ball game. Oakford used Pool and Torbert on the mound with pool getting credit for the defeat.

Catching for Bensalem was Cuthbertson who is a newcomer to Bensalem and shows plenty of sense in his baseball.

This victory marks the second time this season the Aces have trimmed Oakford out of three contests.

Jefferson A. C. Victors Over La France, 8 to 5

The Jefferson A. C. fought an uphill battle to down the LaFrance nine, last night, on St. Ann's field. Score, 8-5.

"Heart's Content" on Return Flight Home

Here is a fine close-up of the tiny Puss Moth plane in which Captain James A. Mollison, British airman, made the first westward solo flight across the Atlantic. It is shown winging from New York toward St. John, N. B., the first leg of his return flight to England.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

GOOD CAMP "EATS"
OUTDOOR life requires good food and plenty of it. I recently visited a Camp Fire Girls' camp up near Bear Mountain, New York State. Up there in camp events are dated by meals—everything is scheduled "before breakfast"—"after dinner"—"just before supper time."

So you see meals are important features of the day.

The camp has a dietitian who plans for nourishing hot dishes, plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and ice cream occasionally.

The girls eat a hearty breakfast—pitchers of milk and hot cocoa are very much in evidence. After breakfast, they sing a few songs, to start the day off right, and then they are assigned to their regular duties, or go to their craft work.

Every morning, at eleven o'clock, the underweights line up for crackers and milk, and before long they're gaining weight at the rate of a pound a week.

When the girls go on hikes they carry simple lunches wrapped in oiled paper and a bandanna, slung over their shoulders, on the ends of sticks. Here's a sample menu: Graham crackers; raisins and nuts; and a Gypsy Salad.

A Gypsy Salad, I found out, is a carrot, dipped in sandwich spread, rolled in lettuce, and wrapped in heavy oiled paper. You eat it as you would a banana, peeling back the oiled paper.

Now if you're planning to build a fire, at the end of the hike, you can take along a can of soup, or individual envelopes of cocoa, to be prepared with hot water; some radishes; and some bananas. You can bake the bananas on top of hot ashes.

Fresh fruits—apples, oranges, tomatoes, are always handy on a hike. And so is evaporated milk.

And here's a fine bean chowder that is popular with the campers, and with all overnight hikers:

Camp Chowder

First, you cut a quarter pound of bacon into very small pieces, and brown it, lightly, in a heavy kettle. Add two chopped onions. Cook them in the bacon fat for a few minutes. Then add some canned tomatoes—the contents of a Number Three can. Add two cups of water, two potatoes, diced, and two one-pound cans of beans. Season with salt, and simmer until the potatoes are tender.

The Camp Fire Girls serve this bean chowder in big bowls, and I understand they often come back for more.

It's a fine dish—hearty but still substantial. It's what an old Irish friend of mine would call "good atein" and drinkin' both."

One of the most interesting machines in a Chesterfield factory is this almost human "making" machine, which stacks up 750 finished cigarettes a minute. End-on, the tray-full looks like a huge honeycomb. But the job isn't ended there, white-gloved inspectors, eagle-eyed and expert from long practice, remove with tweezers each torn or imperfect Chesterfield.

Every possible precaution is taken, both for cleanliness and perfection of product. Every 4 1/2 minutes the air in the factories is changed. The cigarette paper is pure, and burn without taste or odor. The ne-
